LOSS OF THE SHIP CLARISSA.

THE Guatemalian ship Clarises, 579 tons, Captain Dean, arrived at Paperte on the 30th December, with a cargo of lumber from Pager Sound.

The Guatemellan ship Clarisas, 579 tons, Captain Dean, arrived at Eapsete on the 50th December, with a cargo of lumber from Paget Bound.

The original destination of the vessed was Valparalso, but as she needed some repairs, the captain put into this port for the purpose of having them effected. He decided to sell his cargo of lumber, and upon completion of the repairs to load his ship with oranges for San Francisco.

The following is translated from the Messager de Tahiti, of the 12th March: —On Wedseday the 5th March, the Clarisas got underway at Papers to proceed to Papers, where she was to load her cargo of oranges for California. Making sail at 12.15 with the wind that and trimmed forward on the starboard table.

Having got war on without being under command, in spite of her helm being being put up, she ran down on the little island of Mout Un, and was forced, first to brace round all the yards, then seeing the insufficiency of that manuarre, to let go the atrobard suchor, on which fifteen fathoms of chain were paid out. It was then 12.50 p.m. The ship came up in the wisd, stopped, and begun to fail asters by the effect of the wind on her sails; she then resumed her course to gain the pean. TWO COUNTRY AGENTS.—The Agents for the SYDNEY MORNING HERALD are requested to furnish their quarterly statement of accounts previous to the 30th instant. June, 1870.

Che Sponen Marning Berald.

that the Constitutio at appears that the Constitute de Fute re-ported as adopted by the Council at Rome in our last telegram is that series of pro-positions which before being passed were known as "Schema." We presume that this is much like the distinction between a bill and an Act of Parliament. It will be is much like the distinction between a bill and an Act of Parliament. It will be remembered that this Schema contained all the more startling pretensions of the Roman Curia, so far as they relate to the condition of dissentients, and to the rights of the Church over the State, and its entire independence of control, together with the force of its decrees upon the consciences of men in spite of secular authority. We may infer that the eighty Bishops who assented with reserve received some of these propositions with qualifications. It is therefore not till the doctrines proposed are actually announced that the final judgment must be formed of the Council, or of its spirit. If, however, the original Schems and the Constitutio de Fide are thoroughly in harmony, then all that the most daring Jesuit ever contemplated in the establishment of a theoretical and absolute monarchy in the Church is amply sustained by the "fathers in this nineteenth century."

nineteenth century."

The policy of France with respect to these propositions is somewhat oscillating. At first, it was resolved to allow the conductors of the Council to have their course. Then Count Daru, who was always considered to be friendly to the Court of Rome, wrote the famous despatch and sent it to the ambassador, protesting against these dogmas; pointing out the moral and political consequences which must result from their adoption. On the retirement of Count nineteenth century." their adoption. On the retirement of Count DABU, the old idea resumed its ascendency, DARU, the old idea resumed its ascennency, and the French Government resolved to permit things to take their course, or, in the ominous sentence so often employed as the last word, "to let them alone." Whenever these propositions of scelesiastical authority come into actual collision with the Governments of the world, it is announced in the ments or the world, it is announced in the most decisive and unanimous form that they will be resisted. Although the Church claims the power of persecution, the State has declared that it will never suffer such principles to be carried into execution. If there were indeed any tendencies to yield to ruch atrocious assumptions, it would be found necessary for all in opposition to such docuring to combine to resist its practical applications.

"A Council does not decree dogmas except those stready the objects of general being, attented by cation. But we presume, except as wounding the consciences of mankind, and insulting the principles of modern society, no one will pay much attention to such assertions. Great opposition has been made by eminent Catholics, including 180 bishops, as against the pre-tensions in behalf of the Pontiff to bind the choose to proclaim.

There is something, of course, more august in the decisions of a Council claiming infallibility. A great number of eminent persons pronouncing in favour of a particular dogma, if they base their conclusions upon learning and experience, are more likely to be correct than the declarations of one man. There has been but little practical difficulty in ascribing to a General Council infallibitity,—since the interpretation of decisions has been open to question, and has, insions has been open to question, and has, in-deed, been very differently explained in different countries, and a long interval has transpired between the sitting of one Council transpired between the sitting of one Council and another. But the living power of a contemporary Pontiff, always watchful, always prompt to speak, and binding human consciences, is quite another thing, regarded in a merely human view. For instance, after the massacre of St. Bartholomew the Roman Pontiff proclaimed a Te Deum and a jubilee, and struck off medals to celebrate this inhuman affair. Scores of thousands of Protestants were surrised and thousands of Protestants were surprised, and suddenly put to death under circumstances of ingratitude and atrocity such as the world has ingratitude and atrocity such as the world has rately seen. Every Catholic with the smallest pretension to humanity has pronounced this deed a wrong, yet, nevertheless, if the Porz, professing infallibility, proclaimed such deeds matters of thanksgiving to God, who would dare to say that his infallibility failed him.

If, bowever, we transfer the question from more human probabilities to Divine inspiration, then the aspect is quite different. One man is as goed as a thousand to give the mind of the Almighty, and explain, as occasion may require, the terms of its

as occasion may require, the terms of its announcement, should they be found in any way ambiguous. He then assumes the authority ascribed to the Apostles and Prophets, not only as teaching of things already revealed, but whatever may be hereafter disclosed.

Those who believe in this inspiration, of course, ought not to object to the preten-sions of Prus IX., since, besides being always accessible, the Pour's sentence would have the equal advantage of being infallibly

Dr. Newman, now a monk, who formerly belonged to the Church of England, though strongly opposed to the proceedings at Rome, has written a work to explain the effect of infallibility. He divides the operations of the mind under various heads. In one instance they are opinion, and in another belief. In one

German priest, has maintained the influence of the Catholic Church, observes:—

"Political assemblies may make Isws by simple majorities. Those who succeed them are not bound by their decisions, and may modify them. But, when a Council really occumenical has pronounced on matters of degma, it is an affair determined for all time, and will not resppear for discussion. This is the first reason on account of which unanimity is demanded as far as it is possible.

"But in the present Council there is a very strong minority which will maintain itself unbroken. This division has clearly existed from the beginning, because the principle of infallibility, on which there is so great divergence, has been recognised as a reason the most important for the convocation of the Council. These who admit it will accept without more ample reflection, one after another, all the schemara that shall be presented to them from the Court at Rome. More than this, it is only necessary to cast a glance at the personal composition of the committee (deputation) the most important, namely that of Patth, in order to recognise that care has been taken that the minority should not be heard.

"But for eighteen centuries the Church has held as a principle that the decrees touching faith and doctrine ought not to be voted except with unanimity, if not absolutely numerical, at least moral. This indeed is in harmony with the whole system of Catholicism. Up to the present time there is no example of a dogma announced by a simple majority.

"The Church in effect is to preserve, to administer, the depot of doctrines which have been all revealed to it from its foundation. It receives no new revealtions. It cannot make new articles of faith. It is of the Council, as of the Church which it represents—its members are the representatives, the intelligence of all the Catholic world. Their mission is to declare in the name of all the examinity of the faithful, that which these believe upon a question of faith—

"A Council does not decree dogmas except those stready the objects of general besief, atteated by Scipture and readtion or deduced evidently as a consequence of principles universally admitted. When a doctrine has from ages been controverted and combated by theologians, by theological arguments, never can even a Council raise it to the dignity of faith revealed from God.

"And, above all, when the question is to introduce as a dogma a doctrine controverted, which is repugnant to the sentiments of a considerable number of the faithful, the laity have even the courer right to come and declare that they have reserved in this doctrine. Thence it follows, when in the same Council, one party of Bishops raise themselves against it, attesting each that in his own Church they do not hold it to be true, to be revealed, it is by this same statement clear and proved that this doctrine lacks the indispensable qualities of unicerasity, of perpetually, and of general consent, and that no one has a right to impose it as a dogma of the Church.

"It is thus the case, the Church has always, when a number of Bishops, be it ever so little notable, oppose a doctrine proposed by a majority, allowed its desirtion to drop—its purpose being that the Catholicity of dectrine should be indubitable; that which cannot be said if a section of the Church, even the least considerable, did not confess this doctrine."

Such is the irresistible conclusion to which this eminent man arrives, viewing the question from a Catholic standpoint, and not from that of the Jesuits at Rome.

Of course, to a Protestant the argument for the infallibility of the POPE and the Council are equally open to question. The Church of Eagland declares that these Councils have erred, and may err. But supposing any Council to be infallible by Divine inspiration, then perhaps the question would be open whether that inspiration could not be as well concentrated in the of infallibility in the Roman Pontiff seems to be entirely consistent with the Syllabus which he has already issued.

ME. ROLLESTON has given the Boyal Society several useful papers, but he has not hit upon a more fruitful subject than that which he presented for their consideration last Wedne Along the range of social economics there is no question of more importance than that which relates to the nabit of making provision, out of the means of the present, for the pos sible wants of the future. Perceiving the tendency of the manual breadwinners to forego all thought of future want, and to expend the earnings of the week upon the necessities and luxuries of the week, those whose mental training has raised them higher in the social scale have done their utmost to make known the benefits of the save most, it is clear that the latter waste or spend lavishly what they might save. It happens in England, where the statistics of savings' banks are better known than they are here, that the banks are more frequented by the small-wage class than the large; and all who have critically examined the manufacturing districts of that country will be aware that, as a general rule, the families of the higher-waged workmen fare no better than those whose earnings are less. It is by no means uncommon in the iron districts for than those whose earnings are less. It is by no means uncommon in the iron districts for men to drink from Saturday night to Monday, to take that day and the following day for rebalancing themselves, in order to go to work again on Wednesday. In confirmation of this observation, we are informed by one of the English Savings Bank returns that, in a certain parish, while there was £1189 deposited by 108 male weavers, a class whose wages average 8s. weekly, and £425 by thirty-six hecklers, whose average wages were 12s., there was only £637 weekly, and £420 by thirty-aix neckiers, whose average wages were 12s., there was only £637 from fifty-aix mechanics, men whose wages ranged from 18s, to 30s. Such facts—and we believe them to represent as truly the state of things in this colony as in the mother country—seem to aways that the weekless of the state seem to prove that the working-classes have much more in their power for the promotion of their physical and moral well-being than they are at all times willing to concede.

Mr. ROLLESTON seems to be of opinion that or their physical and moral well-being than they are at all times willing to concede.

Mr. Rolliston seems to be of opinion that much more would be done in the way of saving were the opportunities greater. He points to the fact that there were only sixteen of the 113 towns of New South Wales that had a branch of the Savings' Bank in it in 1861, and desires to see this state of things improved upon. The Savings' Bank had schieved great things, and continued to be of the greatest benefit to the colony; but the time had come for it to be superseded, or, if not superseded, supplemented by an agency that would operate more generally. In this view we contur, and we agree also in the opinion that the best agent to employ is one that has been adopted with such eminent success in the mother country, Victoria, and Queensland—namely, the Post Office. With reference to the example of Victoria, it might be objected that the community of Victoria is circled by a smaller girdle; that the people are nearest together; that railways are more extended, and the facilities of communication greater; and that consequently Victoria is not a safe pattern for New South Wales. This objection could not, however, hold good with respect to Queensland, where the population is more scattered than with us, and where the means of communication are far less perfect. Yet in Queensland, where the population is more scattered than with us, and where the means of communication are far less perfect. Yet in Queensland, the success of the Post Office Savings' Banks is a fact past dispute, and full of promise for these colonies generally. The facilities afforded by the Government are freely availed of by the people, who prefer rather to be creditors of the State, than of any less reliable power. It appears that thirty-size post-offices are opened as banks, and that the deposits have increased from £82,565 in post-offices are opened as banks, and that the deposits have increased from £82,665 in 1865 to £241,774 in 1869.

As yet we have been contented with talking about the adoption of this system. It is to be hoped that the facts contained in Mr. Nolleton's paper may now oblige us to act to be hoped that the facts contained in Mr. ROLLESTON's paper may now oblige us to act. In England the question was a long time talked about; but when Mr. Sirks's paper was read before the Social Science Congress in 1859, advocating the establishment of Savings' Banks in connection with the Money Order Department of the General Post Office—the POSTMASTER GENERAL was immediately converted to the plan, and in 1861 obtained the consent of Parliament to its adoption. Much satisfaction will be felt if as little time is allowed to elapse between the expesition of the benefits of Mr. Sikes's plan here and its adoption.

Freculting Personned Appeala.

Pawer v. Reals.

This case, in which there were two appears to the picy Council against judgments of the full Court, was speke to? by counsel.

The Solicitor-General (Mr. Salomons) and Sir James Bein, Q.C., appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Darley is the defendant.

Paintiff, who resided in England, had been nonsuited by pethic Justice, at the first trial of the case. On application the full Court this nonsuit had been set saids, and saw trial granted. This decision had been made the niject of an appeal to the Privy Council, but the case went at a second trial, at which plaintiff obtained a verdict. P. Court was again applied to fer a new trial, but shoed to disturb such verdict. This second judgment was appealed against to the Privy Council, but the Court contains conditions and under certain circumstances which we been reported in connection with former proceedings. Jefandent having failed to point out property to easiefy the nestion, a rule nisi for compulsory sequestration had been stained against the After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been stained against him. After this, however, there had been converted to a not security about the special case from the special case from the special case from the special case from Bathrerst Assizes. The greatest succeeding, there might be now harder the prisoner was alleged to have sworn and the had been convicted on an indistinct of prejury. In alleged perjury was that, in a entit at the Hartley Small best Court,

The question argued was whether the verdict was unstainable in the absence of a more positive and complete antimation by Mrs. Dawkins of the presentor's statement, or whither the proof by her evidence that the money we not so far as she knew, paid in her presence, would be a sufficient "confirmatory circumstance." The arguent for the Crown was, by asserting he had paid in the greence of Mrs. Dawkins, prisoner must be taken to have sent that she could, if present in the Small Debte Court, investing the avidence, to udge of the whole case.

Their Hoxons held that conviction must be quashed. It reference to the information, they found that the prisoner were he "had paid it in the presence of Mrs. Dawkins and at Antonio Creek," not all the had paid it in the presence of Mrs. Dawkins and Antonio Creek, "and the perjury charged had been selve of and dealt with as it had been a statement that that been paid "in her presence," was not (and could late). seconds. Precover had been convicted of receiving stolen respectly. An objection had been taken to the sufficiency of the evidence, but no person appeared for the prisoner in apport of this objection.

The Solicitor-General appeared for the Crown.

This was a special case from the Quarter Sessions at Some, the simple questions being whether the Judge had seed legally in allowing the jury to have refreshments in the nature of food—exclusive of fermented or spirituous spaces—after such jury had retired to consider their verdict; sold whether, if his Honor had not acted legally in allowing mac refreshments, this error would be sufficient to make said the conviction.

Their Honors, after hearing the argument of these milemen (who cited a number of authorities), held that is to this order of the Judge, the weight of authorities without determining it the treasonableness of the rule thus laid down. From similar weight of authorities, however, it was equally itself the treasonableness of the rule thus laid down. From similar weight of authorities, however, it was equally itself the fact of this order having been made would at reader the conviction void, unless the jury had been hambled with refreshments by one of the parties; so 2st, as the jurors paid for their own food, the conviction wald be good, although it would have been void if the mreshments had been provided at the public expense. The case of the Queen w. Murphy, recently decided by the Privy Council, was especially referred to by one of their Blooms (Mr. Justice Hargrave), as shewing that an error of this kind would not swold the verdict, for in that case its error had been the more serious, of allowing the procedent in similar cases, it would be their duty to recommend them. Their Honors addressed an expression of their spinon as to the ab for a breach of the iby-laws of the Sydney Corporation, on the procession of Mr. Oran, the civic inspector of licensed public vehicles. The conviction of the applicant was for not having his vehicles attended by a conductor properly clothed as prescribed by such by-laws. The Corporation had directed in the said by-laws that the conductors should be dothed in blue with red trimmings, should have a cap with the word "conductor" thereon, and should wear conspicuously a badges with the number of the vehicle on it, which ladge should be furnished, free of cost, by the City Connell. It was also prescribed that this uniform should be kept clean. The kind of offence charged in this case was that the conductor, who had actually worn the prescribed kind of cost, had not a cap with the word constant the conductor, who had never, first, whether the grant of 9s., with levy and distress, or, in default, to two fays' imprisonment. The questions were, first, whether the City Cunnell had power to make any by-laws directing a particular uniform to be worn by bus conductors; soundly, whother the proceeding was not initiated by reason of the summons having been issued by the Mayor of the city, who had, by construction of law, an interest in the fine to be imposed. The first of these points was the principal one. It was contended by the applicant that the Corporation had no power to make a by-law directing the wearing of any uniform, their power being limited to directing the wearing of a badge. For the Corporation, if was urged that the power to make general regulations for the good conduct of the drivers and conductors, &c., included the power to prescribe a particular uniform, and twen if the power were limited to ordering badges to be worn, the cap, with the word conductor on it, might be properly regarded as a badge which the Council had power to order. As to the Mayor having issued the summons, it was contended that this was of no moment, because he had not seted judicially in the nativer. This point, however, did not seem to

HARRISON AND ANOTHER V. M'RROWN.

This was an interpleader case in which Mr. William Henry M'Roown claimed the goods levied on, under an execution against the defendant by virtue of a bill of sale made to bim by defendant. Mr. Ely (who appeared for Mr. M'Roown, the claimant of the goods) proved, by the evidence of Mr. M'Roown, that at he time of the execution of the bill of sale the amount mentioned in the bill of sale (as consideration mosey), was bean fife due to bim by the defendant. Mr. Figott, for the defendant, took an objection that the bill of sale was to defrand the plaintiff in this action of the fruits of his verdict. Mr. Sly replied, relying on the case of Martindale v. Booth, 3 B. and A., page 498. His Honor gave a verdict for the claimant, with £2 2a. costs to Mr. Sly.

Lock v. Graden.

This was an action brought by Mr. George Lock, against John Grace, to recover the sum of £10, amount of deposit paid by the plaintiff to the defendant on the treaty for the purchase of three cottage and and at Wastelon near Sydney. The plaintiff come was that he had paid the money, now recisimed, on a bargain for the sale to him of certain land found not to be of the nature which the insteading epider had represented to the plaintiff as an intending purchaser. Plaintiff said it was originally stated to him of the money, now recisimed, on a bargain for the sale to him of certain land found not to be of the nature which the insteading epider had represented to the defendant.

There is another consideration which must weigh with Sydney merchante, namely, that by way of Auckland they would have their leiters two days sconer, at issat, than if wellington, or any Southern port, were selected; whereas, Melbourne can derive no great advantage from the line accept it should fall in as an alternate service with the Sucr mail.

But while making Wellington the port of call would be the first on the port of call would be made to the steam company itself. One, and not the least of the causes of failure in the Pensma Company, was the making Wellington in the Pensma Company, was the making Wellington in the Pensma Company, was the making Wellington the port of call in New Zeeland, aport to which there was nothing to bring, from which there was nothing to bring, from which there was nothing to bring, the most of the causes of failure in the Pensma Company, was the making Wellington the port of call in New Zeeland, aport to which there was nothing to bring, from which there was nothing to carry a sway. Wellington has no export but wool, and that will always go homeward by sailing rossels, and not to San Pencieco at all. The Empire City has no trade but that of politices, which will not fill montally steamers with a freight. On the contrary Auckland, with i

ARMIDALE.

JUNE 15TH.—During the past week or fortnight we have experienced dry and frosty weather. Last Bunday morning we had one of the heaviest frosts ever experienced in New Bagland; there was fee in one night from half to three-quarters of an inch in thickness. Up to the time of writing we are still experiencing heavy frosts. The grass in and around Armidale is now getting exceedingly scarce, and should these heavy frosts continue much longer, as large number of stock must periah for the want of food.

Farming pursuits have been greatly delayed by the rains, and few of our farmors have yet commenced to plough their land, the wheat crop this year will consequently be very backward. A large quantity of last year's wheat is still on hand, independent farmors declining to accept the figure now offering, viz., 4a. per bushel. The fellowing are the prices at present, viz.—Whost, 4a. per bushel. They, 24 per ton; oats, 4a. per ton; out, 3a. per ton; but, 4b. per bushel.

Foot-ret is again prevalent on a number of our stations, and, should we have much more wet, great losses from this disease will be experienced in this district, Large numbers of sheep are now looking wretchedly bad. Fencing is going ahead on a number of stations in this district, botck-and-log, and six wires and a cap are the favourites. The fencing of the large runs, known as Goetwyck and Moki Creek, will shortly be completed. On the latter station great improvements are being made by the proprietor. Mr. Higgins. The price of sheep at present is 5a. to 7s. per head.

The additions to the Armidale Court-house are new being pushed enward by the contractor, Mr. C. H. Brachier. The additions to the building, it is said, will cost from £2000 to £2500.

The work of the Roman Catholic cathedral is again being processed with, under the supervision of Mr. Smith, the contractor.

The number of children new attending the Public school is nearly 200; the present school room being too small to recommedate the children, a now schoolroom is in course of rectio

To the Editor of the Heraid.

Sin.—In looking over the police matter that appears in your paper from time to time, I find that persons are fined for allowing their goats to stray, and which are at all times a great nuisance, particularly to those who delight in gardens, and who should unfortunately not that to the gate always. It suggested itself to my rind the other day on seeing a large number of the above much-abused animals that if the police, or those whose duty it is to look after such matters, took a quiet stroll up Denham-street and the cross streets, Surry Hills, they would greatly distinguish themselves, particularly to those in the horticultural way, and greatly increase the police fund, to which such fines go, I am given to understand.

A Medical View of the Boat Race.—Was the Oxford and Cambridge boat race on Wednesday, with its accompaniments, a good and desirable thing or not? We who are apt to look at such an assemblage as took place on that day, through the medium of the College of Physicians' nomenclature, of 1260 injuries and siscesses, are more than inclined to say that the artendant evils largely outweighed the beneficial effects likely to follow the outing and the healthy influence of seeing a manly trial of skill and strength. It is needless to remark on that tender and delicate, but wofully mistaken and temporary regard for his stomach—that propensity for eating and drinking to excess on such occasions, which is a feature inseparable frem John Bell, and for which he very surely sind properly suffers on the following day, if for no longer a period. We pay as little regard to the excuse offered for other animal propensities on these occasions. Our anxiety lies in snother direction; and it is to draw the serious attention of the police, although we fear with the prospect of so response, to the absolute and neglectful absence of arrangements along parts of the ceurse for preventing the dangers of overcrowding that we now venture to speak. Wejshall take, for instance, Hammersmith-bridge, where we helieve the greatest overcrowding took place. Here, shortly after the race, a mass of people, packed as closely as possible, to be compaishe with respiration, and numbering several thousands, swayed across from the Surray side, and pursued from behind by a vast crowd impatient of delay. As in all great crowds, individual efforts were almost it wain, and as a consequence a considerable number of people were more or less, and some seriously injured. We had personal experience of Hammersmith-bridge at this time, and have no hesitation in saying that the occurrence of such a scene as we then asw was disgraceful to the police of our metropolis, who might

THE READING OF NEWSPAPES.—The reading of many newspapers is not usually thought to be a good thing; but M. Feyrnet, in Le Temps, tells us that M. de Montalambert was not only very fond of novels, but also read an enormous number of papers and reviews. A mong his papers M. de Montalembert has left a "Notice Historique sur le Coup d'Etat de Decembre," dedicated to M. le Comte Daru. A stick was placed against one of the ribs, to preserve the actient in its standing position. It has cluss been sacriained that the skeleton is that of a beautiful young Maori woman named Eruti, who is said to have been abot, and who was well known by the sattlers in said sround Pates. The circumstatices under which Eruti came by her death, we have not been able to learn. The skeleton has been removed by some of the settlers.

Persons desirons of angling in the reservoirs when the fish are sufficiently established, will, of course, be made, as at Hobart Town, to pay a small fee for the privilege. And, finally, whenever the Corporation are so disposed, the fish may be sent regularly to the market, where they will be sure to command a fair figure. Close time should, of course, be strictly observed, but for eight months in the year they will be fit for the table. In fact, after the first outlay—and we wish that graver avocations would permit us to take the contract at half the proposed £50—thé acclimatised fish will be a source of clear gain to the colony. We hail the scheme of the Municipal Council as a valuable boon to the public, and, having thus far ventured to blend our thanks with suggestion, will only hint at parting, that "bis dat, qui cito dat." The sooner the thing is done, the better it will pay.

WATER SUPPLY FOR THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

THE question as to how and from what source The question as to how and from what source the city and suburbs are to be supplied with water has been very much discussed. To say nothing of the Report from the Commissioners appointed to consider this subject there have been as many articles and letters written upon it as, if gathered together, would till a good sized volume. Of late there has been such a superabundance of water that the certainty of the supply falling short in a dry season has been quite lost sight of. But the subject is one which will force itself upon public attention before long.

will force itself upon public attention before long.

There have been many schemes put forward, but there are now only two to be decided upon—the gravitation plan of the Commissioners, and the project for drawing a supply from (feorge's and Cook's Rivers. Events are in progress which will probably, before long, compel a more close and practical attention to the latter project than has yet been paid to it.

A large portion of the north bank of Cook's latter project than has yet been paid to it.

A large portion of the north bank of Cook's River is, and has been for some years, in an incorporated district—the Borough of Marrickville. It is most probable that in a few months another municipality will be formed, which will take in that bank from the Marrickville boundary to Shea's Creek. It is most likely, also, that the whole of the area between Cook's and George's Rivers will also be soon incorporated. These municipalities will have, to a great extent, the charge of the two rivers and their tributaries, and will be in a position to force upon the Government and Legislature the consideration of any plan which may be thought practicable and desirable for using them to supply Sydney and its environs—the people of these municipalities included—with water. It will be necessary that the capacity of these rivers, and the means which will probably be recommended for utilising them should have a more careful consideration than appears to have yet been accorded to them.

Without going, at present, over any of the

Without going, at present, over any of the arguments which have been advanced for and against the proposition for drawing a supply of fresh water from these rivers, it will be well, therefore, to see what it is that will probably be proposed.

fresh water from these rivers, it will be well, therefore, to see what it is that will probably be proposed.

It will be urged again—as it has been already urged—that Georges River may be dammed readily and with comparative cheapness (near its entrance to Botany Bay), with materials lying cheer to the spot—stone and sand. Some congineers deny that a substantial dam can be constructed with such materials. Others maintain that if the dam be but made solid enough, so as to be like such a rocky but rivers and it there be sufficient provision for the escape (by a weir) of flood waters, sand and stone will answer admirably. It has even been asserted that dams of this kind have been actually erected and have proved sufficient. Between George's and Cook's Rivers there are a scries of swamps. It will be proposed that these should be depended so as to connect the two rivers by a navigable canal, and that a dam should be thrown across Cook's River above Shea's Creek. That creek is used a good deal as a sewer. The idea is, to use its still. If an abundant supply of fresh water can be obtaired by damming and connecting the two rivers, it can be made available for manufacturing purposes, and the refuse water from the manufactories may be discharged by Shea's Creek. There is a good deal of land in the impediate neighbourhood of Cook's River which is peculiarly suited for manufacturing operations, and which, by the construction of a sewer with an outlet to Shea's Creek, can be made fully available. There can be no doubt as to the area of the two rivers, and their irributaries, and of the salt water quicker than can be done in the ordinary course of nature, it may be pumped out as the Haarlem Lake, in Holland, was drained. To supply the city and the high lands around it, the water, after having been brought as near as possible to the city boundaries, would have been assented to the country which they drain being sufficient to ensure an immense supply of water. For storage purposes, the Cook's River sha have been done at 42d. 18 or the Commissioners, while the opening up of so large an extent of navigable waters in the immediate vicinity of the metropolis would not only greatly enhance the value of property near their banks, but would be a source of pleasure to the citizens.

Athorious Homicide Af Irewich.—A murder, the stiendant circumstances of which render it horrible in the extreme, in reported by the Brishne Courier of the 11th instant, to have been committed on the road which divides Mr F. C. Devenay's residence from the North Australian Jockey Club rescourse, about 6 o'clock on Thursday evening lass. It appears that a farmer of Badbank Plains, named Francis Butier, started home an foot from the race, and was accompanied by his wife and brother-in-law. When near the entrance to Mr. Daveney's three other farmers of Radbank Plains, named Michael Nugent, Patrick Ward, and Patrick Wilkinson, with whose it was said Butier was on bed terms, and with whose it was said Butier was on bed terms, and with whose it was easily butier with the course in the early part of the afternoon, set upon him and best him most brutally. His brother-in-law, William Butier, took his part, best after getting rather badly treated he ras away for heip. The wife of the unfortunate victim did all the could to save him, but the murderous wratches, after besting him badly about the head and body, jumped on him till they left him a corpose. The news agreed rapidly, and information being given to the police, sergeant Francia, after viewing the body, started in paranti of the murderers, and arressed them at Redbank Plains about 11 o'clock the same night. The body in the meantime was removed to the morgue, and a poor morters examination was made yesteredy morning. Inversal injuries of a frightful nature were the cause of death. The pytecases were brought before the Court, and remarded until the 15th instant. The ansfortunate victim is raid to have been sober at the time, and was highly respected in the circle in which he moved. He was about two children. Great indignation was manifested against the moved the search of the parantic started against the moved frees.

THE THAMES GOLD-FIELD.—The N. Z. Heraid says this gold-field has passed through a very savere and harassing crisis, but it is all the better for it. Work is now being carried on upon most of the ground formerly proved payable, and then taken up under companies did work and centle not make it pay, individual miners are proporting more than payable stone. The truth is, the field is only now coming to be scherly worked, and as there is no feer of a relapse it the unbackluf severial state of spaculation which brought a temporary depression upon it a year ago, we may fairly hope for a steady and gradually increasing advance in the general prosperity and yield of the gold-field. As it is, the production of gold in the Thames, according to the Government statistics published quarterly, is second only to that of Otago, and cousse within a few thoughold curoes of the returns for that province.

The Auchland Weskly Herald of the 28th ultime

The Auchland Weskly Herald of the 28th ultimospy:

We have from time to time published from the Themes Advertiser the evidence in the great native land case at Ohinemuri. Pressure on our space presintes our giving a complete summary at pressure.

On Tuesday Mr. Wilson addressed the Geart; foundess witnesses had been called on the Ngatikos side, and twenty-eight wintesses on Te Hira's side.

The Court then adjourned for parunal of its notes until 10 the following morning, when judgment was given in favour of Te Keps and all the Egustikos colimants. An adjournment then took place until the following morning, when judgment was given in favour of Te Keps and all the Egustikos colimants. An adjournment then took place until the following morning, when the Court finally determined to adjourn some side.

On the day judgment was given To Moonanni and hi is few returned from Walhi, the Nguikkos colimants and hi is few returned from Walhi, the Nguikkos solicement ne ar Katikati; they were loaded with plunder taken from Ngs sides, residing there. Their conduct had been very viole at, and such as to ferce the natives at Walhi to shelter in the bank. Firearms were pointed at the heads of the Mguikkos by this party. When the Lady Bown left Ohinemu si Te Moonanni was trying to bully Te Keps's party of Ngs silkoo, with a view of getting the land out of them, which the Court had just awarded.

We hope that the Government will not allow the same. To Moonanni to set European suthority at define to in this manner. Having submitted to the Court's arbity missen, the Haubstus must be content to shide by the result. We have fellow are egged on by some Barope and tittle senior to content to shide by the result. We have the fellow are egged on by some Barope as a senior to content to shide by the result.

that these fellows are egred on by some Europe and.

Sipping Wine.—That this was once, an offener against good manners, we learn from a 'carious tittle book published for the behoof of the sor, a four Hog lish gentry in 1671, and again in 1673, "The Rules o Civility; or Certain Ways of Deportment observed in France, amongst all persons of Quality, upon several Occasions." After divers precepts,—as "It is not eivil during the repest, to eivicie or flud faul, with the meat or sanges, or to trouble himself and the company with perpetual discours ass of Belly-timber,"—this old book of stiquette says. "It arounds too mach of similisarity to sip our wine, and make two or three draughts of a glass; we must drink it gravely at once with our eyes in the glass (and staring about the room), and be sure our mouth be, not full: I say gravely and deliberately, lest, guarking it dewn too fast, we should be forced to bring it up again, which would be a great rudeney and ususeests the whole table. Besides, throwing it down our throats as into a tunnel, would be an actic, more fit for a juggler than a gentleman."

LUNACY.—Since 1835 the number of lunaties in France has increase from 4-96 per cent of the population 5/24-28 per cent. M. Lunier, the Inspector-General of Lunatics, is of opinion that a considerable proportion this increase is due to the abuse of apirituous liquors.

FOR POSITIVE SALE BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGERS.

EURNETT DISTRICT, QUEENSLAND.

That extensive and highly remunerative Cattle Station, situated on the Wonbah, setuated on the Wonbah Creek, and Bursett River, and se favourably known as the property of Mesers. Power and Connel y, together with 6500 HEAD CATTLE, more or less. Betimated grazing expabilities 6600 head in all seasons. TBEMS.—One-third cash on the fall of the hammer, residue by approved bills at twolve and twenty-four months, dated from day of sele, and bearing interest at the rate of 8 per cent, per annua, secured by mortgage over the staticn and stock.

ARRISON, JONES, and DEVLIN have been instructed by the Mortgagees to sell by public suction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pittstreet, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 20th July, 1570, at 12 o'clock, That well-known cattle station known as consisting of the following blocks of country, viz.:—WONBAH, TAKILBAREN WEST MOORUNGAL BANIA.

embracing an chormons extent of excellent cattle country being chiefly lightly timbered, and ironback ridges with rich apple tree flats, shundarily grassed and watered, and is admittedly one of the best breeding stations in the northern districts.

With this splendid property will be sold 500 HEAD CATTLE, more or less to be innstered and delivered; also 200 HORSES, more or less.

The CATTLE are a general herd of very superior de-

The CAITLE are a general herd of very superior description, chiefly Durhams, extremely quiet and of good ages, including rome 500 or 600 appead cows, and about 1000 bullocks ever 3 years, a large proportion of which are fat.

The HORSES are well bred, and consist of some very fine brood mares, and a large proportion of fine young draught stock, including a very valuable STALLION, "HERO."

The IMPROVEMENTS, all of which are first-class, substantial, and nearly new, are, On the HEAD STALTION 6-roomed weatherboard cottage, with a garden, detached kitchen, long building containing store, meat house, mens apartments, and black-smith's shop; stable, horse yards, stockyard capable of working 3000 acros, two others of 200 and 100 acros each, all security enclosed with substantial two-real fence. At the BANIA out-station, good shingled hat, large stockyard, horse paddock of 300 acros; there are also 12 miles good new fencing, dividing Bania, which is used for builocks, from Wonbab.

The advantages offered to capitalists by a property like that above referred to are too apparent to need any comment at the hands of the auctioneers, who would, however, merely point to the rare chance of buying cattle in any numbers to supply the growing wants of the southern fattening stations, for which a breeding station, combining good fattening qualities like this, is so admirably adapted; white all those who have embarked in an overland expedition from the north well know the great value of a lot of horses of the above description, from the almost fabilions prices that have in some instances been paid for strained herees in the north.

Full particulars may be had on application to HAR-RISON, JONES, and DEVLIN, Sydney. Full particulars may be bad on application to HAR RISON, JONES, and DEVLIN, Sydney.

AREA, 67,800 ACRES (MORE OR LESS).

With the Station will be sold 600 HKAD OF CATTLE (MORE OR LESS),
a mixed herd.
to be mustered and delivered; all calves under 6
menths old given in.
80 bush horses (more or less), 14 (more of less) stock horses, 120 (more or less), mixed aheep, working plant, stores, and sundries, to be taken at a valuation in the usual manner. The hush horses may be taken or not, at the option of the purchases.

The country is well watered, and is acknowledged to be of the best description for fattening stock, every acre being available.
THE IMPROVEMENTS ARR GOOD, comprising house, stockyard, &c., &c., &c., and the herd, for breeding, is second to none in the Northern districts. Intending purchasers are invited to inspect this really valuable property, which the owner offers for positive sale.

District of Liverpool Plains.

ESSRS. H. and F. WEAVER have received instructions from Measur. Joseph Pearse and Son to sell by auction, at the Northumberland Hotel, West Mattland, on WEDNESDAY, 29th June, at 12 o'clock, Mattland, on WEDNESDAY, 29th June, at 12 o'clock, Mattland, on WEDNESDAY, 29th June, at 12 o'clock, Those oslebrated fattening etations, Pockataros and Behind Pockataros, having an area of about 269 square miles of magnificent myall and sait bush country, permanently watered in all seasons by the Barwin River, to which it has a frontage of 17 miles. The Recht, to which it has a frontage of 14 miles, besides being intersected by the Talaba, Mooming, Grawin, and Meki Croska, also a large legoon near the centre of the run.

The improvements consist of a comfortable cottage, good paddock of 500 acres, and strong substantial stock-yard, also 64 acres of purchased issed.

Cryon, and Cryen South, Nos. I and 2, have a frontage of 19 miles to both sides of Prune Creek, and contains about 164 square miles of splendid country, thickly covered with the richest and best description of grasses and herbage, which, for their fattening qualities, cannot be surpassed.

The cattle on both stations are of a first-close description, and fully equal to any in the colony, the brills have been carefully selected from the noted herds of John Lee, Esq., Eylong, and the Australian Agricultural Company, Warrah.

These, truly magnificent squattages are situated in the best part of the Liverpool Plains district, and are surrounded by those equally well known and favourite stations Gollymongoel, Mungyah, Merrivinebone, Burren, Beaddobone, Yarraldool, and Murkadool.

As it is the intention of one of the proprieters sherrily to which furce these fine properties are placed in the market for positive and bons fide sale, and as much an opportunity seldom accurs of securing runs like these (selected ever 39 years ago) so lightly stocked, capitalists and others, desirous of obtaining a really first-class in threetment, are invited to inepect the stations and sto
